Rebel baseball team in finals; girls bow out

In an exciting game played on their home field yesterday (Tuesday), the Telstar baseball team successfully "dodged a bullet," in the words of Coach Levi Brown, defeating Wiscasset 10-9 to advance to the Western Maine Class C championship game, at home Thursday. The Rebels' softball team was less fortunate, losing to Erskine, 3-4, in yesterday's semi-final, after walloping Freeport Saturday.

The baseball game ran through six innings of unexpected offensive free-for-all before ending in a tight pitchers' battle. The Rebels led early in the game, but a steady Wiscasset attack, coupled with sloppy Telstar defense, put the visitors up 9-7 going into the bottom of the ninth inning.

After two walks and a pop-up by Gary Williamson, Tom James singled home one run. But then Matt York hit an easy fly ball to right field. The Wiscasset fielder, perhaps overeager to make the throw to the plate to prevent the runner on third base from scoring, misplayed the ball—which tied it for Telstar.

The tie stood as the teams went into the final inning of regulation play, and Coach

Saunders' bail ruling draws mixed reactions

In judging, last week, that Alfred Saunders was eligible for bail, Oxford County Superior Court Justice Carl Bradford ruled that Mr. Saunders' ties to the community were sufficiently strong to make it unlikely that he would attempt to flee the state before his trial—now expected to take place sometime in the fall.

Accused of murdering his second wife, Joan, in 1981, Mr. Saunders has been held at the Oxford County Jail since his arrest last August—following the discovery of her body buried in the basement of their former residence on Bird Hill Road, in Bethel.

To be released, Mr. Saunders must now raise either $350,000 in single-surety cash bail, or find people willing to post a total of $700,000 in surety property.

As of yesterday (Tuesday) morning, Superior Court Clerk Donna Howe reported that Mr. Saunders had raised approximately $150,000 of the $700,000 in surety property.

Community reaction to the possibility of Mr. Saunders being released on bail is decidedly mixed. Bob Coolidge, owner of Bob's Corner Store, in Locke Mills, testified for Mr. Saunders at the bail hearing, describing a stable eight- or nine-year business relationship with him.

Mr. Coolidge said later that he testified for Mr. Saunders in the interest of fairness. "The way I understand it there are at least three other cases in Maine with just about the same circumstances," The defendants in these cases have been allowed bail, Mr. Coolidge noted, "and there's something wrong with the system if it doesn't apply the same to everyone."

"I'm not saying I think he's innocent or guilty," Mr. Coolidge said. "That's for the jury to decide. But he should have the same rights as anyone else."

Don Lawrence, of Woodstock, took a very different view of the matter. Mr. Lawrence, who has a lien on Mr. Saunders' real estate as a result of a legal suit last year, said he and others in the community had difficulty understanding the judge's ruling. "What I don't understand—and a lot of people don't—

New valuations being sent out to property owners

Owners of property in the Town of Bethel will receive notices in the mail next week informing them of the new valuation placed on their property by the revaluation team hired by the town.

Bob Gingras, of Parker Appraisal Co., of Windham, met with the Board of Assessors Monday night to answer any questions before the revaluations are sent out—probably mid-week.

The assessors will listen to any questions, or complaints, about the revaluation of properties at hearings set for June 26, 27, 28. While the properties of the town have been revalued, the assessments have still not been made, and, of course, no tax rate will be set until after Town Meeting, next Wednesday.

Following the assessors meeting, the Board of Selectmen met and renewed the junkyard permit for Sherwood Jordan and issued a new liquor license for L'Auberge Country Inn, to cover wine, beer and liquor.

After some discussion on what the effect might be on Bethel Inn car parking habits, the board approved a request by Richard and Carole Crandall to erect a basketball hoop in the Fire Station parking lot. The lot is being used occasionally by Bethel Inn staff and guests for parking their cars.

Selectman Peter Haines suggested that the basketball players would likely not be around enough to keep cars away. "There won't be kids there 10 days out of the summer, I'll bet," he said.

The hoop and backboard will be erected by the Crandalls at their own expense, and they will remove it whenever asked to by town officials. In their request for permission to erect the hoop, the Crandalls noted that the only two outdoor hoops in town are at Crescent Park.

Commissioners to decide in July on Stowell taxes

The Oxford County Commissioners have 60 days from last Tuesday to decide on a request by Stowell Products Inc., of Woodstock, whether the company's 1987 tax assessment should be lowered.

County Clerk Carole Mahoney said the decision would possibly be announced at the commissioners' July 21 meeting, with the parties involved notified by mail following the meeting.

At a tax abatement hearing last Tuesday evening at the Woodstock town office, the commissioners heard officials from Stowell's argue that the total 1987 assessment of $1,453,000 was excessive. The company is seeking to have the assessment reduced by $915,000—to $538,000.

PUC schedules hearing in Dixfield on CMP's Hydro-Quebec proposal

This month the Maine Public Utilities Commission will conduct three hearings for the public to give their views on Central Maine Power Company's Hydro-Quebec proposal. The nearest meeting will be in Dixfield, Tuesday, June 21, at Dixfield Middle School, off Weld Street. There will be two sessions: 3:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The PUC has been holding hearings on CMP's proposal since spring. A decision is expected in October. However, the Legislature last session passed a CMP-drafted bill allowing the former to overturn a negative finding by the PUC.

CMP's proposal involves importing Canadian power along a line of steel towers through western Maine. The proposal needs the approval of the PUC, the Department of Environmental Protection, and the federal Department of Energy.

In 1985 Stowell Products paid $1,119,000 for the land, buildings and equipment at the mill.

It is the assessments of the buildings ($727,000) and the equipment ($668,000) that are at issue. Stowell President Raleigh Minor argued that more realistic figures would be $201,000 for the buildings and $278,000 for the equipment.

To support the company's contention, Marketing Director Don Gray described the poor state of the wood-products industry, and Plant Manager Dana Gregson told the commissioners that at the time Stowell Products took over the

Public seeks to preserve water access; convert old rail lines to trails

Preserving public access to lakes and rivers, and the conversion of old rail lines to recreational trails were the main concerns of area residents who turned out for the Land for Maine's Future workshop held last Tuesday at Sunday River Ski Resort.

The workshop was the ninth, and final, in a series intended to give Maine citizens the chance to tell officials how they think the $35 million bond they approved last year for land purchases should be spent.

Input from the workshops will be used by the Land for Maine's Future Board in developing a plan for allocating the money.

Approximately 60 people attended the workshop, many from the Bethel area, but others from as far away as Rangeley and Fryeburg.

"It was an excellent meeting. Everyone there had something to say, and they spoke up," said Wende Gray, who last year served as co-chairman of the Committee to Save Maine's Heritage, an organization supporting the bond issue.

Primary election Tuesday, June 14

Next Tuesday's primary election will be a rather quiet affair in most areas towns. Democrats and Republicans alike have no choices in the U.S. Senate and House contests. Only the incumbents and their single challengers appear on the ballot. (See sample ballots, page 2.)

In state races as well, there are generally only single candidates in the party run-offs. Here are the names that will appear in the various district races:

House District 48 (Brownfield, Denmark, Porter, Fryeburg, Stoneham, Stow, Newfield, Parsonfield). The Republican ballot lists incumbent

Outward Bound staff assists wardens, REMS to rescue stricken hiker

Outward Bound's commitment to training and preparation paid off for a Portland youngster last week when he was injured by a lightning strike.

Outward Bound staff from the Newry base played a major role in the rescue of Phil J. Fournier, 17, who had been struck by lightning at approximately 10:30 Monday evening while camping on Hedgehog Hill in Grafton Notch State Park.

Outward Bounders were not the first on the scene. Game Wardens Don Gray, David Berry, and Rick Mills, along with Jim Richard, an emergency medical technician from Rural Emergency Medical Services, had climbed up the 1.4-mile trail and reached young Fournier by 2:30 a.m.

Mr. Richard stabilized the victim, who was suffering from respiratory shock and was having difficulty breathing, and began monitoring his vital signs.

While this was happening, Outward Bound, which is on call with the Warden Service for search and rescue, was mobilizing.

Bethel Police Chief Eric Wight had contacted Outward Bound Program Director Paul Marcolini just before 1 a.m., and Mr. Marcolini immediately started a phone-tree to reach other staff members.

The initial Outward Bound team, led by Mr. Marcolini, then collected its equipment from the rescue locker in Newry, drove to the park and climbed to the scene—in time to arrive only 15 minutes behind the wardens and Mr. Richard.

There they helped load the victim into a Stokes litter, assisted in monitoring his vital signs, and began the slow job of car-

Opinions

Who shall control the purse?

On the warrant to be presented to Bethel Town Meeting June 15 are two so-called housekeeping articles that should be given very careful attention.

Article 45 asks if Town Meeting will permit the selectmen and treasurer to set up special accounts for the fire department, ambulance service and landfill and to put fee collections from neighboring towns into these accounts and then expend them at will.

Article 47 asks if Town Meeting will permit the selectmen and treasurer to set up special accounts for the planning board and code enforcement officer and to put fee collections from developers into these accounts and then expend them at will.

The argument in favor of such changes is that it makes the various departments of town government self-sufficient. Taxpayers do not have to fund some departmental operations through taxes; the programs fund themselves through collections.

The argument against such changes is that Town Meeting—the legislative body of the town—would be giving up its power and transferring it to elected and hired officials. Whereas Town Meeting is authorized to raise and appropriate sums of money for government operations, under the new system Town Meeting would be asked to authorize only expenditures of tax monies—not expenditures of monies collected as fees, rents, etc.

During the budget deliberations this past spring, some on the Budget Committee pointed out that the expenditures for the remodeling taking place at the town office were not authorized by Town Meeting.

The town manager pointed out that the project itself was indeed authorized by Town Meeting.

Both sides were correct: the project was authorized, along with $9,000 in funding. This spring, after putting the project out to bid, the selectmen themselves authorized spending $13,000 for their new meeting room, with the extra funds coming from rents that had been accumulating in a separate account—similar to the separate accounts envisioned on the warrant articles in question.

Some members of the Budget Committee argued that their committee—and Town Meeting—was being by-passed through the use of a separate account that the selectmen could draw on at will.

It may be that Town Meeting is too cumbersome a political process in this day and age and that the selectmen and town manager should be given the power to control funds without asking permission of the Budget Committee and Town Meeting.

If voters agree that this is the case, and that modern government demands more authority in the executive branch [Town Office] and less in the legislative branch [Town Meeting], that is fine. But voters should be aware of the issue at stake.

A note from the publisher

Here it is graduation time already. And Town Meeting time, and summer time. Of course it's not really summer time, but with Memorial Day behind us, it feels like summer, despite the fact that—as the world turns—summer doesn't officially start for two more weeks.

But nature was what seemed to be on most people's minds last week. Everyone had something to say about the black flies. Worst I've ever seen, is what many people said. Prim's sold a lot of bug dope, and a lot of suntan lotion, too.

Between being happy that summer was right around the corner and angry at the blackfly-blank bugs, people were also watching their TV screens last week as the President set foot in "the evil empire."

Lots of the commentators said he was looking tired and out of it. I think maybe he was just over-awed that there he was, a tourist in the setting of his worst nightmares. When he returned to America, he termed his talks with Soviet leader Gorbachev "momentous."

I would concur. Even though nothing concrete was accomplished, the meeting between the two leaders of the two strongest countries in the world seemed a giant step in pushing aside the iron curtain that has divided the western world into two halves.

A friend of mine points out, in an article in "Harvard Magazine," that among the books lining the walls of Mikhail Gorbachev's Kremlin office is one by a pair of Harvard faculty members—"Getting to Yes: Negotiating Agreement Without Giving In." According to the article, Mr. Gorbachev sent a message to the authors asking if they thought he was following the book's advice.

My friend, Doug Stewart, reports that the basic idea of the book is for both sides in any negotiation to expand their view so that they don't look at an issue as having just two sides. "The first goal should be to broaden things, to generate new options. Try to expand the pie before you divide it up," the book recommends.

For example, one of the authors—Roger Fisher—points out that in arms control negotiations each side is worried that the other will wind up with an advantage in hardware. If arms control were, in fact, a matter of hardware, we would be having arms control negotiations with Margaret Thatcher, since Great Britain has enough missiles to blow up most of the United States.

In fact, Professor Fisher says, the problem is attitudes, not hardware. "There's no hardware solution to human problems," he says.

What is the solution then? One, broaden the perspective. In the case of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. negotiations, both sides must recall that they were united during World War II and that there are no historical examples of permanent enemies in the world. It is the general tendency of human beings to try to live and work together. Two, don't stake out positions; rather, generate ideas and clearing of name calling and finger-pointing.

Regarding this latter point, I must say the only place in the summit where I thought Reagan didn't handle himself well was when he was lecturing the Russians on the benefits to be derived from western-style democracy. Would you like it if you invited someone into your house and that person wasted no time in telling you your rugs were dirty, your lawn needed mowing and your dogs had bad breath?

I think the idea in visiting another country is to learn about life in that country—not to judge life in that country by one's own standards. And Nancy Reagan?—stamping her foot like an impatient schoolgirl? Saints preserve us.

But I didn't want to talk about the Moscow summit; I wanted to talk about the fact that 115 local youngsters—the largest graduating class in the 20-year history of Telstar—are getting ready to set out into the world.

As I do every spring, I sat down and talked with a half-dozen of the graduates last week. Actually, I listened; they talked. What I wanted to know was how they felt about leaving the nest: whether they felt prepared, and what changes they would recommend in the preparation of those following behind them through the halls of Telstar.

By and large they said they felt ready to tackle what they had set themselves to do. In most cases it was going to be more schooling. Of course they knew they would be small fish in a bigger pond wherever they were going, but insofar as their social, athletic and academic skills were concerned, they felt they had received good training.

Naturally they all had favorite teachers, and they said it was these special teachers who got them interested in a particular class or a particular field. They mostly all complained about school spirit not being as good as they would like to see it. And, by spirit, they meant having more people show up for school events, as well as having more people talk of the school in positive terms.

They also wanted to see more about the school in The Citizen, and Melissa Palmer suggested the paper should have correspondents—possibly one from each grade—to write a column each week. (I think this is a wonderful idea, and I'm anxious to talk with any student who thinks he or she would be a good correspondent next year.)

As I've heard from previous classes, I would like to take this opportunity to thank many more for their generous donations.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

My name is Barbara Jacobs. I'm from Gravenzande, The Netherlands, but since last August I've been living in West Bethel and I'm going to high school here as an exchange student. Now it is almost time for me to go home—and I would like to thank everyone in the Bethel area for giving me the chance to live here and have such a great time.

I'm really going to miss all my friends and teachers at Telstar. They helped me learn about American customs and history—and improved my English a lot. I will never forget the new things we did. (We went on Career Week, the prom and became a member of the Track team.)

I must also thank Lee and Helen Weeks for making this a great year. They are the area representatives in Raymond for the International Foundation for Foreign Study, the organization that is sponsoring my exchange. Thanks for the activities and the advice, Lee and Helen.

Most importantly, I would like to thank my host family, Richard and Barbara Lewis, and my host brother and sister Matthew and Jamie. I feel like a part of their family and say goodbye in a few weeks. My time here will be very hard. We have had good times together and I will always treasure my American family.

Thank you, everybody.

Barbara Jacobs

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, June 14, Andover will elect a new selectman. After moderating the May Special Town Meeting, I was asked to run for this office.

As a life-long resident I have shared Andover's problems and concerns. I feel a responsibility of service to my town and ask for your support.

As a declared write-in candidate, a valid vote must follow certain procedures. The box must be checked to register a vote. My name must be written as "Fred D. Emerson," followed by Andover, Maine. New laws state that because someone else in town, my son, shares my name, the initial must be used to be valid. Also the candidate's residence must be written in to be valid.

mill, the buildings and equipment were antiquated and run down.

Gregson said the company was faced with a high demand for maintenance and was trying to upgrade conditions as finances allowed.

Selectman Gary Wing questioned this last contention. "It wasn't in that bad shape when they bought it," he said. "I was there. I'm appalled at how it's gone down hill since."

Mr. Wing also took issue with the company's valuation of $278,000 on its equipment, pointing out that at the time of sale the Bureau of Taxation listed the value of the equipment at $450,000.

Referring to that figure, James Riordan, an assessor hired by the commissioners, said, "I don't know how you can question that," noting that the buyer's lawyer had to approve that figure at the time of the sale.

Mr. Minor explained that the breakdown of the components of the total purchase price could be distorted in order to disguise the true price paid for the mill: "You can put excess value on if you've paid," he said. "You can buy excess tax stamps."

"I've never done that in 25 years," Mr. Riordan said.

First Selectman George Hooper also pointed out that the town had paid to have a professional assessment of the mill's machinery and equipment done. The assessment was reflected in the 1986 tax bill, and was not questioned by the company.

Hooper said the company had also failed to notify the town of improvements at the mill.

Following the meeting, the commissioners and Mr. Riordan inspected the mill itself.

Stowell's has yet to pay either its 1986 or 1987 tax bills, Mr. Hooper said later. The town has placed a lien on the land and buildings for the 1986 taxes, he said, and intends to place a further lien on personal property at the site.

Outward Bound

rying him down through the bushwack and trail to the road.

The Outward Bounders also took charge of organizing the operation and helped the campers who had been with Fournier pack up to leave.

"They did a super job," said Mr. Richard of the Outward Bounders. "They were well-organized, well-led, and obviously knew what they were doing."

Jonathan Goldberg, a member of the rescue team, said the night was damp, but not buggy, and the moon was out, so the rescuers didn't need to use their headlamps in order to find their way.

But even with extra people available to spell the litter bearers, Mr. Goldberg said, the trip down still seemed at some points to go on forever.

It was almost 6 a.m. before the rescuers reached the road, where an ambulance was waiting to take the victim to Rumford Community Hospital. He was initially treated in the Intensive Care Unit but had recovered sufficiently by the weekend to be released.

The rescue was a smooth, almost routine operation for the Outward Bound staff. "We train for this," Mr. Marcolini said. "Our people have been involved in numerous searches and rescues; we've got the right resources, and everyone knows his role."

In fact, Outward Bound has been involved with search and rescue operations since the early 1940s, Mr. Marcolini said. The rescue locker at the camp in Newry is equipped for a wide variety of operations, including search and rescue on the water and rescues requiring technical rock climbing.

The two other Outward Bound bases in Maine, in Rockland and Greenville, are similarly prepared, he said, and are on call with the Warden Service to assist with emergencies in their areas.

Last Friday was Young Authors Day. Lots of adults came in and talked, sang, and showed us the things they did well. There were people who were good at storytelling, singing, composing, illustrating, bookwriting and other things like that.

All of the kids were split up into groups of 19 or 20. These groups were a special color, which was the color of their name tag. They all went around as groups to the different rooms.

At the end of the day one kid came and gave each of the people a mug, a plant, a banner and a card.

Since Friday was Young Authors Day we got to do lots of special things. We got to have two 25-minute recesses instead of one 25-minute and one five-minute recess. We also got to eat outside. We decided to eat on the teeter-totters.

We think of voodoo, satan worship and witchcraft as remote practices in Africa among uncivilized tribal people. A radio interview with a converted warlock in satanic worship revealed that while much of his practice was in California, he had contacts with groups in each of the 48 continental states. He spoke of connected cults, one of which had had notices in 'Maine and New Hampshire local newspapers and has also had members living in Upton. He told of cannibalism with children as victims, because they feel it releases to them energy and power and that thousands of children kidnapped have gone that route.

Of course the man and his wife are in great danger of their lives and recently warned of a violent torture and murder planned for them. This is so incredible and heinous, it would be more comfortable to ignore it. But if we face it and learn about it, we will be better equipped to protect our own. It begins in subtle insidious ways, through parlor games and TV programs, most of which never take root. A few years ago, we scoffed at the notion America would be so full of self-destructive practices which are now common and out of control. This one may be nearer our front doors than we realize.

The Ray Berniers are spending a few days here enjoying the fresh air and quiet and improving their home. Daughter, Giselle Hogle, and children, Mike and Melinda, of Billerica, Mass. spent an overnight with them.

Roland Bernier and Robert Bussiere of Errol, N.H., were involved in a car-motorcycle accident Saturday. Neither was hurt, but extensive damage to the right side of the bike and the rear of the car was sustained.

Nathan Isley was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital by Tri-Town at midnight Sunday, then brought back home. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson Sr. called at the Vatchers Friday, May 27. Joe Vatcher called on Mr. and Mrs. Anderson at their trailer, in Bridgton, Sunday. Sympathy goes to the family of Waino Kujala.

Leone Penley, of West Paris, called and said her daughter gave her a fuchsia plant and she hung it out and June 1 she went to water it and a purple finch had built a nest in the plant and four eggs were in it.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lyons and Elliot spent Memorial weekend at Peaks Island with her folks.

Lila Ellingwood, a former resident of North Paris, was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital by Tri-Town. Callers at the "Root" Lawrences were Polly Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Odell Heath and Mione Record. She has retired from Woolworth's store.

The supper at the Community Hall was well attended, even though it was 90 degrees in the shade. Thanks, John Haney Jr. for the delicious biscuits.

A community meeting was held at Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vatcher's, June 1. Plans were made for a potluck supper for July 30. Strawberry shortcake with real whipped cream. Special thanks to everyone who cooked for the supper, and special thanks to Gus Spurr, who played the piano for a sing-along before supper. Made the time much happier.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Abbott spent Memorial weekend at Cupsuptic Campground.

Mrs. Eveline Vatcher was taken to Stephens Memorial Hospital, Thursday by Tri-Town Rescue. She has been feeling ill for quite a spell.

Skiing

Me and Kayce went skiing at Sunday River. We went up the chair lift together. Then we went down three mile trail and that was Dream Maker. Then we went in the Lodge to have something to eat. We went outside to ski some more. We went down Sundance, my favorite trail is Sundance because it has a flat part and you don't even stop. I go very fast and there is an icy part. I go very fast over the bumps. I go bump! bump! bump! My mom pulls me up the little bumps. She pulls me up a little hill with her ski pole. Then we went skiing again.

The Mystery of the Hidden Map

Julie, Meg, Erin, Amber, Hana, Brett, Angela and Martha were walking home from school. When Martha & Julie got home, they asked their mother if they could go out into the woods. Mother said, "Yes!"

Then they went out into the woods. They saw an oak tree that was light brown, but a part of it was dark brown.

Martha felt around the dark hole which was soft and mushy. Then the dark brown spot fell in!

Julie screamed, "A.a.a.a...eekkk!" and Martha stuck her hand in farther.

Martha stuck her hand in another hole. She felt something mysterious.

The hole closed on Martha's hand. Martha said, "Help! Julie my hand is stuck in here!" Julie said, "All right." She pulled and pulled and pulled! Martha's hand wouldn't move.

"Do you have a stick, Julie?" Martha asked. Julie said, "Yes!"

Julie used the stick to pull out Martha's hand. It worked! The mysterious thing was a bottle and a map was in it.

Julie and Martha showed Mom and Dad. Mom said, "It's a treasure map!"

Julie said, "Let's put it in a museum!" Mom said, "I think that's a great idea."

So, they did.

Jon, Jeni and Ian

Jeni is my friend. She Teeters with me. And she plays with me. Jon and Jeni come over to my house. We have a good time together. We jump on the waterbed. We play "Ring-Around-a-Rosey" on the waterbed. We get under the sheets and push our hands on the mattress and pretend the bumps are waves. When we went under the covers the first time, we pretended we were in an alligator's mouth. We watch T.V. Mom fixes us popcorn. We go to Burger King. In the summer, we go swimming. And we drink Seven-up.

Hair Styles

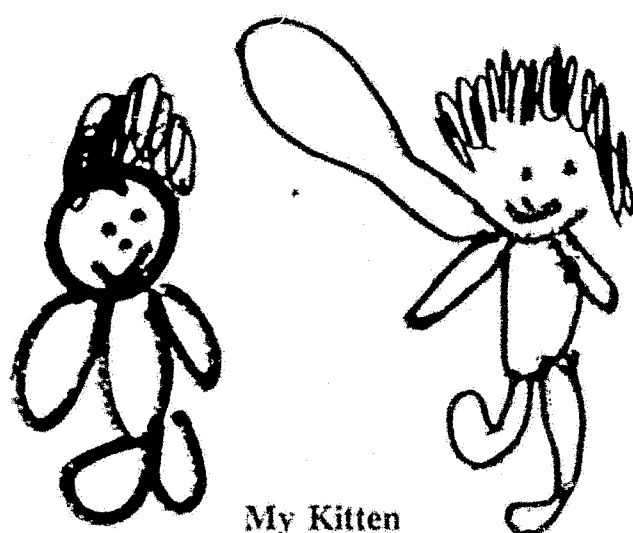

His hair came out of his head. She's bald because she never got hair. She likes yellow hair and yellow wigs, too. She wears wigs because she's bald. This is weird because she has different colored hair and stripes in her hair. "My hair!" "What lovely hair you have." This is Coral Adele. Hair can look like this. I like this one.

My King

I have a king. His name is Duke of Madis. And he is an awful king. He gave the people bread and water. He made us all wear rags. Then one day a prince came along and saw me crying. He said, "Why are you crying?" "Because the king is not taking care of us." "No," said the prince, "I don't want you to tell the king." Then the king came out and saw the prince and said, "Get him!" So, the guards got the prince. They put him in jail. He stayed there 10 days. Then the prince had a plan! He could take the keys and unlock the door. He rushed out of the jail and went to the kingdom. Then he went inside. The king said, "What are you doing here? You are supposed to be in jail." The prince said, "I unlocked the door." Then they had a big fight and the prince won. Then the prince gave everybody new clothes and good food. Then the prince looked at me. I smiled at him. Then we got married. And lived happily ever after.

My Kitten

My kitten was sitting on a beam in my house last night. She got in trouble. She got put outside. She cried and cried at the door. I brought her in and she purred and purred to me. She rubbed and rubbed against me. My cat's name is Katie. She sat down and she got back up. She went to her cat dish. She ate and ate. She went outside. She came back inside. It was time for me to go to bed. I brought Katie into bed. She laid on my head and she purred and purred and purred. She fell off my head and onto the bed. She fell off my bed and bumped her head. She cried and cried. I picked her up and went to bed. It was morning and Julie wanted to come over. I said, "Yes, you can come over." So, Julie came over. She said, "I like your new cat. It is very pretty. I like the gray and white. It matches." I said, "Would you like to see my other kitten?" "O.K." "He's fat and he digs you, but he is cute." "All right let's go." "All right here we go." "Hi, hi, hi, hi, hi, hi. It's off to work we go. Hi, hi, hi, hi, hi. It's off to work we go." "Here he is." "I guess he is fat!" "OUCH! He bit me. I should have listened to you." "He is double pawed. He is big and fat!" Julie said, "Well I like your other cat better. I have to go home, BYE!"

The Wedding for the Rabbit

In ten more days we are getting married. "I can't find my dress. Oh, I found a white dress," said the girl rabbit. "I can't find my tie that matches," said the boy rabbit. "I need some white shoes." "I will go get you some." "Okay." And he did. He brought back shoes that cost three dollars and also a tie that matches and bubblegum. It was for Katy. Mark bought it. Katy picked carrots for her and Mark. The door knocked. "Who is it?" "Oh, hi." "When is your wedding?" "In nine days." "Can I come?" "Sure, why not?" "I thought you already had too many people." We are getting married tomorrow! We are married today. La, la, la, la... You're getting married, married La, la, la, la... We are married Da, da, da, da... da, da, da, da... La, la, la, la... da, da, da, da... We are married Na, na, na, na... I am having a baby. "Oh, Ouch." "Oh, I will call the nurse." "Waa, waa, waa, waa!" "What does it look like?" "It looks like it has fat cheeks like you. A fat nose too, but it's still cute." This is what it looks like.

The Bad Bear

I know a bear named Fred. He is mean. One day he went to a school in the big woods. One of the bears there had a toy truck. Fred said, "Give that truck to me now, or I will give you a black eye." That bear who had the toy truck said, "NO!" BOOM! Fred let him have it right between the eyes! The bear with the truck gave him the truck and he told the teacher. The teacher whipped him with a paddle. Fred cried and cried! He deserved it! He laughed the other bears. When Fred got home he told his big Daddy Bear! "Daddy! The teacher took the paddle to me at school today!" Big Daddy Bear asked Fred what he did. Fred said, "I had a fight with another little bear and I let him have it, in the eye! BOOM! Big Daddy Bear said, "Sometimes you can be a very naughty little bear and you probably deserve what you get! Fred, you are just going to have to behave yourself and get along with the other little bears!" Fred said, "I know Daddy, but it will be very hard!"

At Grammy's House

I like to go up to my Grammy's house in Newry to spend the night. She has a dog named Muffin. We play together and we have fun. I get a ball and throw it up on the roof. Muffin jumps off the ground. I like to help my Grammy bake cookies. When she goes upstairs I sneak a cookie. Then I go back outside to play with Muffin. Grammy gets us a dog bone. I pretend the cookie is a dog bone. It is good to eat dog bones. We play dogs. It is fun to play dogs. Grammy gives me rides on his four-wheeler. When Grammy goes to work I stay with Grampa. I get my own cereal. Then I get Grampa's cereal. I give Muffin a bone. Then I go outside to lug wood. I love to go up to my Grammy's when my Grammy doesn't have to go to work.

Another week gone by and summer is nearer, but it doesn't seem that way this morning with the cooler weather. Don't know what to expect this year. Seemed rather odd to hear them say the temperature would be below normal for a few days, but nothing we can do but put on jackets and keep warm. Guess it will be normal part of the time, at least.

This past week was a time for visiting the cemeteries. Peggy, Russell and I had gone to some of the gravesites in the afternoon on Thursday, and in the evening Russell went with me to Pike's Hill, in Norway, and to Pine Grove to put flowers on a good friend's grave. We had been to Middle Intervale in Bethel and at Locke Mills, where I put flowers on my brother and sister-in-law's graves. Also we had been to West Paris to decorate many family members' graves. We go each year and do the decorating.

Had an early appointment in town on Friday morning and while I kept that Russell went to the hospital for his check-up on blood as well as he and Peggy doing other errands. After my appointment, we went for groceries; so did lots that morning while in town. Russell has been working on the gardens whenever he has had time and has gotten lots of things set out. We should be real pretty later if all his flowers bloom. He has been on his knees a lot setting out flowers and other plants and still has some to do.

Did more house cleaning on Saturday and hope I will soon get it done. Do a little at a time and it adds up as I go along. Wynona called on Saturday and was coming to go to the cemeteries and wanted me to go with her, so I did. They got here about noon time and we had lunch before heading out. The girls thought it was a long way to go to Middle Intervale to decorate graves and still farther when we stopped at West Paris and then went to Pike's Hill to do the same. They enjoyed their treat at Shaner's the best of all during the ride.

Peggy has had trouble starting her car and had to take it to the garage to get help with it. I followed her down so as to bring her back.

Peggy and Russell went to the dance at Locke Mills on Saturday night. Had a good time and said there was a good crowd there to make it more fun.

Sunday was another busy day as far as we were concerned. I did some more house cleaning and Russell worked outside doing whatever needed doing. Peggy mowed lawns some and did other things that needed doing. Her daughter, Myrna, and husband, Bernard White, were callers in the afternoon. Found me with a mess where I was cleaning. Got it taken care of eventually.

SENIOR CITIZEN MENUS

Monday, May 13: Salisbury steak with gravy, O'Brien potatoes, carrots or green beans, bread, purple plums.

Tuesday, May 13: Cranberry juice, baked chicken leg, whipped potatoes, Harvard beets, biscuit, cottage pudding.

Thursday, May 16: Spaghetti with meat balls, garden salad, garlic bread, fresh fruit.

Monday was another cleaning day for me so am getting things pretty well in order now. Still got windows to wash and curtains, also. I will be glad when it is done for this time. Russell has gotten most of the garden planted but hasn't set out his tomato or pepper plants, as yet. The spinach is getting most large enough to eat, and the peas are growing great guns. The strawberry plants are doing great, also. Lots of blossoms and are setting quite a few berries, so hope they continue to do well. His new ones that he set out are doing wonderfully well. Didn't lose one of them and one of them is even blossomed. They couldn't look any better.

Tuesday was a day for going to the doctor to get my back treated but washed the floors in the morning so it wouldn't be waiting for me when I got back. Had quite a wait before getting to the doctor's. (Guess I got the car before the horse, as it was Wednesday that I went to the doctor's.) Did take Russell to see a doctor on Tuesday as he has some trouble with one hand. Some kind of infection, seems to be in the back of his left hand, but he has stuff to make it better, we hope.

I was in Dr. Knopp's office last Friday and saw this Emergency Alert paper. To me it is something folks should be made aware of, especially those having children as all kids like stickers and this has to do with the poison and drugs that are on some stickers to get kids hooked on drugs or even killed. It is so hard to think that anyone would like to harm the children, but that is the way of the world now. Drugs exist everywhere and to think that special stickers are made to get children started on drugs is simply inhuman.

Hope you will all read it and pass the word along. Thanks a lot.

Hannah F. Richardson Tent #19, Daughters of Union Veterans, met at the K. of P. Hall, Wednesday, May 25, for a regular meeting and plans for the Memorial service. A memorial service for deceased members was held during the meeting. There will be no meeting of the Tent in June as Department Convention will be in session at that time. Plans were made to hold a July meeting to update department procedures, hold memorial service for a former member and receive reports of the department session before taking our usual summer recess.

Mrs. Violet Doughty, of Norway, visited friends here Sunday. She also attended church here. She visited her camp on Lake Keewaydin and found everything alright.

Memorial Services were held here Sunday with the Daughters of Union Veterans in charge. The Boy Scouts joined in the parade. Services were also held at the brook. The firemen, with three shiny trucks, led. The flags looked so pretty, waving in the wind. Each Civil War Veteran was remembered with a flag placed at their grave.

Mrs. Kimberly Bryant, of Lovell visited her aunt, Grace Nelson, Sunday evening.

Mrs. Betty Farwell and friend, from Norway, visited me Sunday afternoon. Miss Shirley Grant, of Auburn, visited her uncle, Bob Grant and wife over the weekend.

Kennie Gordon, of Greenville, was a visitor at the home of Brenda Files over the long weekend.

Becky Hatstat, Brenda Files and Sharon McAllister went to Saugus, Mass., one evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Nelson and two children, of Winslow, were visitors at his home here over Memorial. Bob Martin is the caretaker of the Nelson's home here.

Miss Christine Nelson, of Woburn, Mass., visited relatives here Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Curtis and family of, Wilmot, Mass., have been staying at their camp on Lake Keewaydin for a few days.

PINE TREE LEAGUE PITCHER OF THE WEEK. Levi Brown, of Keiser Homes, struck out seven batters in seven innings of pitching against last year's Pine Tree League champion, Rumford. Keiser Homes went on to an 11-1 season-opening victory. On the field behind Brown, who also had a home run in the game, are shortstop Scott Hadley and right fielder Rick Whitney.

STEPPING INTO THE SEASON—Keiser Homes' right fielder Rick Whitney readies to swing in first inning action during last week's season-opener against Rumford. Keiser's Scott Hadley jumped on the first pitch of the inning for a towering home run, and the former Westies went on to pound Rumford pitching for 10 more runs and an easy 11-1 victory over last year's Pine Tree League champion.

News from the Bethel Recreation Board

Bethel's Recreation Board has things well underway for another exciting summer program for area children.

The starting game of the baseball season last Tuesday night between the Bethel Braves and Rumford Point netted the Braves an 8-1 win. Strong winds kept the ball flies at bay, while a fair crowd watched Tim Remington pitch four innings, striking out nine players and getting two base hits in three times at bat. It was a good night for Josh Otten, too. He finished out the game by pitching two innings, facing eight batters—striking out five.

Thursday night the Braves went on to win their second game at West Paris, 14-6. It was a real good pitching night for Steve and Tim Remington and Josh Otten. Adam Taylor did an outstanding job catching and Tyrol Bartholomew is still receiving congratulations on the first home run of the season. Great teamwork was exhibited throughout the game and Coach Tom Remington commented that the kids played real well together.

Meanwhile, back in Bethel on Thursday night at the Telstar field, the T-Ballers were suited up in their dark and light blues ready for action but were held back by an unexpected photo session. They loved it however and it seemed to spur them on as they eagerly took their turns at bat, catching, running or whatever they were asked to do. Although it was practice night, it was obvious that future games would be a challenge for all when the team splits up to scrimmage.

Keep watching this column for future highlights, and hopefully pictures. The Red Sox were delayed in getting started, but you'll hear from them next week. You'll be hearing from the Farm Teams as well, and the Bethel Reds, Blues and Greys. With that array of color it sounds like a rainbow summer and at the end perhaps we'll find a pot of golden ideas for continued community recreation. See you next week.

WHAT AM I OFFERED FOR THIS CB RADIO asks auctioneer (and Rotarian) David Murphy at Saturday's Rotary auction in the Telstar cafeteria. About 50 people turned out to bid on the new and used items, including a pop-top camper, tents, vacuum cleaners, bikes, antique tools and furniture, kitchen items and toys, plus a few dozen gift certificates donated by area businesspeople. In addition to getting some real bargains, the bidders also had a good time. The auction netted the club about $2,500, which will be used for scholarships, aid to local needy families, and other local community service projects.

Esther Davis went with her daughter, Patricia Tibbels, to Livermore, Sunday, where they attended the 50th anniversary of Esther's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pike, which was held at the vestry of the Universalist Church, Livermore.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks took Olive Davis to Bear River Grange, Newry, to act as pianist for the evening.

I was around visiting several graveyards before Memorial. I was at West Paris yard, the new yard at South Paris, Albany Cemetery and Bridgton lot at their cemetery before the Memorial Day services.

I visited with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews and sister, Lillian. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Goldsmith came over for lunch and then after that we went to Naples graveyard where Sylvia decorated her father's and aunt's graves. We toured part of Naples and Sandy Creek before reaching home.

Several attended Memorial services held in towns around us. Bryant Pond, Locke Mills, West Paris, South Paris and Norway all had parades in honor of those soldiers who lost their lives during their services to our country.

People are trying to get their gardens in as we feel it is late, but the cold days still persist. Tomatoes do not like cold weather. It's been too cold to get the tiny plants growing properly. It has been a cold spring, I think. I put plants on my porch the first of May and lost some, as it was too cold for them; this was a glass porch. Years back, Ellis' mother put hers on an open porch the first of May and all kept on growing, but not this year—and this is June.

Much prayer is needed.
Communion was observed.
Closing hymn: "O that will be glory."
Vacation Bible School for all ages, June 20-24.

Enrichment courses offered this summer
This year the Telstar Evening Summer School is offering enrichment courses. These courses are offered to both adults and students, with high school credit available.

Some of the courses teach job skills, such as typing and office procedures. Part of the class time in typing will be spent in the computer lab, using software to improve typing skill and accuracy. Office procedures will include organizing work, managing time and learning filing systems, among other skills. These two courses, if taken together, will provide 51 hours of training.

Ever wonder how printed T-shirts are made or how brochures are printed. You can discover how in Graphic Arts, a 60-hour course introducing screen printing, black and white photography and offset lithography. Interests of the students will be a primary consideration in applying techniques.

Art will provide an intensive period of 60 hours during the six weeks time to explore two and three dimensional materials. Outdoor sketching and a group art project are featured.

Other enrichment courses are: Computer Literacy (which meets the state graduation requirement for computer proficiency); Driver Education, Physical Education, Study Skills and Writing for College.

Courses that will provide credit to students who failed a course during the regular school year are: Algebra, American History, Biology, Chemistry and English.

The Telstar Evening Summer School hours are 5:30 to 9 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, from June 28 to Aug. 4. Anyone with questions or interested in registering should call 824-2780, the SAD #44 Adult Education office.

THE BREAD AND BUTTER BAKE SHOP, on Main Street, Bethel, is under the supervision of owner Diane Friedlander. The shop has a few stools for sitting and munching—is open every day except Sunday.

of a friend in Wells River there.

Bert and Marion Griffen, mother, of Norway, were callers at the Cleveland Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Waterhouse, of South Woodstock, called on his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Alanson Cummings, one day last week.

Rick Corless, son of Warren and Jane Corless, was home from his school in Gloucester, Mass. for the weekend. He was accompanied by his aunt and uncle, Nancy and Al Olson, and his grandmother, Elsie McCallum of Gloucester, Mass. Rick had attended an awards day last week where he received a certificate of merit and $25 for perfect attendance. He returned Sunday to finish the school year.

Frances Bennett and Colleen Boyd were in Haverhill, N.H., last weekend at the home of Frances' sister, Evelyn Armburst. Colleen attended the wedding.

Telstar's largest class ever graduates Friday, June 10th

To the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," the largest graduating class in the 20-year history of Telstar Regional High School will walk into the gym this Friday evening and stand before the community before receiving diplomas and going out into the world.

While the exact number of graduates was still in flux at press time, there were going to be approximately 115 seniors who successfully completed their high school requirements. The largest number in a previous graduating class was about 85, back in the mid-70s, according to school officials.

Prior to Friday, the graduates will have Baccalaureate Services Thursday night and Awards Ceremonies Wednesday.

Students 'step-up' to Telstar Middle School

June 15 was "Step-Up Day" at the Telstar Middle School. Students from Andover, Woodstock and Crescent Park schools spent their first day at the school in preparation for next year's entrance into the 6th Grade (for Crescent Park students) or 7th Grade (for Andover and Woodstock students).

Along with the present 6th and 7th graders, the "new" students experienced what the step-up day committee termed "a close to regular day" at the middle school.

All 220 students had an opportunity to take part in the classes they will have next year; to meet next year's teachers and support staff; to learn about special orientation subjects; and to get a feel for the building.

The new students and staff felt that the term "positive" could best be used to describe their reaction to the day's experiences.

Notes from the

Woodstock Historical Society

Woodstock has some beautiful horses at one farm. Here is some information on one breed of horse:

The Morgan Horse, our country's oldest breed of light horse, is as much a part of America today as it was a most two centuries ago. The great stamina and vigor of the Morgan, together with his excellent conformation and way of going are justly famous. The American Morgan Horse Association.

Mortimer Wiske was a distinguished citizen of Woodstock. He directed choral groups in Brooklyn and New Jersey. He also set up a summer music group at Birch Villa. Many celebrities from the world of music instructed students there: Joshua Heifetz, Rosa Ponselle, Lusa Fettezzini, Marcella Sembrini, and a three tier of the Metropolitan all came to share their talent, to name a few. We are fortunate to have had a golden age of music in Woodstock.

Jeanette Mills gave some items to the Society.

W. PARIS VOLUNTEERS COLLECT $815.05 FOR CANCER

This is the time of year the American Cancer Society crusades for funds to support its program of research, education and service to cancer patients. The 1988 crusade started in early April with a potluck supper and a training session held at the home of Chairman Joan Young.

Many of the crusaders have assisted with the residential crusade for nearly 20 years. State Crusade Chairman Judy Bennett joined the group and congratulated everyone on the support they provide to the Cancer Society. The April Residential Crusade encouraged women to have a mammogram.

The 1988 Crusaders were Beryl Oja, Lena Dean, Mina Whittier, Margaret Perham, Eleanor Inman, Mary Hadley, Roberta Ross, Linda Lumatta, Mary Emery, Terry Merrill, Joan Poland, Debbie Herrick, Beverly Stevens, Pat Yates, Patty Poland and Joan Young.

JACKSON-SILVER POST NEWS

Members of the Jackson-Silver Post #68 of the American Legion met June 2 for the last meeting of the summer.

For some time consideration and discussion has been given to the saleable lumber on the Legion property, which is mostly pine. It was finally voted to sell this lumber to an individual contractor, Chuck Mason, of Bethel, to be cut in the near future.

Some discussion was held on the lack of proper respect to the American flag during the Memorial Day observances, even by those who are members of the Post. The Americanism officer, Herbert Lyon, said beginning in the fall there will be a concerted effort to present a program on flag etiquette. The program will include seminars for the members of the Post and speaking in public schools.

There will be an open house at the Post July 23, from 1 to 3 p.m. The public is invited.

The Sons of the American Legion, which is part of the Post, voted to donate $200 to the Multiple Sclerosis Research Fund.

It was reported that the Sons of the Legion voted to award a scholarship of $500 to a Telstar graduate who was going on to trade school. Dennis Swan was chosen to be the recipient. The award will be given at the end of the school's first semester's work with a passing grade.

It was voted that the Post would officially host the national commander of the American Legion at the Legion Hall in December. No date has been set.

It was noted that the large attendance of citizens at Memorial Day parades and

The last day of school for SAD #17 students and teachers is June 14. It will be a full day of school. The annual awards assembly will be held in the gym from 11 to 12. At 1:30, the annual softball game between the 6th-graders and the faculty will be played on the back field. At 2:30 all will return to classrooms and rank cards will be given out. A report to parents regarding achievement test results will be included.

Friday, June 10, is the date of our annual field day. Grades 4, 5 and 6 will go to Hebron for a full day of activities. Students must bring a bag lunch and something cold to drink. Grades 2 and 3 have the entire school to themselves and have scheduled plenty of activities for themselves. Monday, June 13, is the rain date.

The Kindergarten and 1st-graders are having a special treat on the last day of school. Thanks to Ms. Connie Brown, they are having a pasta party. Ms. Brown is the owner of Misa's Pasta and Cheese Shop in Norway. She will be providing homemade pasta, which the children will eat at school. They will also be taking home sample packages so they can make some more. Ms. Brown is the mother of Melissa Martin.
